

The Department of Mathematics at the University of Georgia invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning in August 2022. Duties will consist of research and teaching in mathematics, as well as departmental service. A Ph.D., or equivalent foreign degree, in Mathematics or a related field is required. Successful applicants will carry outstanding credentials in mathematical research and demonstrate a commitment to excellence in teaching and mentoring undergraduate and graduate students. Complete applications must be received by November 15, 2021 to ensure full consideration, but review will continue until the position is filled. The University of Georgia is located in Athens, Georgia, which has a vibrant and engaging intercultural community.

To apply, please submit a vita with a list of publications, a teaching statement, a research statement, a diversity and inclusion statement, and four letters of recommendation (one addressing the candidate's teaching skills), through mathjobs.org. Candidates will also need to submit an application through UGAJobs, <https://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/225671> with a list of references who provided recommendation letters on mathjobs.org. Applicants should apply to this position through both MathJobs and UGAJobs; candidates who do not submit an application to UGAJobs cannot be considered for the position.

The Mathematics Department, the Franklin College of Arts and Sciences, its many units, and the University of Georgia are committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty and students, and sustaining a work and learning environment that is inclusive.
