

The Department of Mathematics at the University of Georgia invites applications for a Lecturer position beginning in August 2022. Duties will consist of teaching 12 contact hours per semester, as well as departmental service. A Ph.D., or equivalent foreign degree, in Mathematics or a related field is required. Successful applicants should exhibit a commitment to excellence in teaching and to the success of our undergraduate courses. Complete applications must be received by December 31, 2021, to ensure full consideration, but review will continue until the position is filled. The University of Georgia is located in Athens, Georgia, which has a vibrant and engaging intercultural community.

To apply, please submit a Curriculum Vita, a statement on teaching experience and teaching philosophy, a diversity and inclusion statement, and at least three letters of reference addressing your teaching experience and ability, through mathjobs.org. Candidates will also need to submit an application through UGAJobs, <https://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/228314> with a list of references who provided recommendation letters on mathjobs.org. Applicants should apply to this position through both MathJobs and UGAJobs; candidates who do not submit an application to UGAJobs cannot be considered for the position.

The Mathematics Department, the Franklin College of Arts and Sciences, its many units, and the University of Georgia are committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty and students, and sustaining a work and learning environment that is inclusive. Women, minorities, and people with disabilities are encouraged to apply. The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, ethnicity, age, genetic information, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation, or protected veteran status.
