

Italian Lecturer

The Department of Romance Languages at the University of Georgia (Athens) invites applicants for the position of Lecturer of Italian, to begin August 1, 2022. This is a full-time, non-tenure-track appointment with a course load of 24 credit hours/academic year, primarily in first- and second-year Italian courses, but may also include classes in Italian Culture. The successful candidate will demonstrate the ability to inspire interest in Italian culture by integrating literature, music, cinema and the arts in their language teaching as well as lead and participate in engaging extra-curricular activities. The ability to teach a second Romance language is desirable, but not required.

Qualifications

- Ph.D. (in hand by start date) in Italian or Italian Studies
- Two years of experience teaching college Italian and a record of teaching excellence
- Native or near-native fluency in both Italian and English

To apply, candidates should visit <https://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/242890> and provide all the requested materials: cover letter, CV, statement of teaching philosophy, and contact information for three references, at least one of which should address the candidate's teaching record. Letters of recommendation will be requested later in the search process. Applications received by March 8, 2022 will receive full consideration, but the position will remain open until filled. The candidate selected for hire will also be required to provide original transcripts showing degrees earned. Questions about the position should be directed to the search committee chair, Thomas Peterson, at peterson@uga.edu.
